

Helenam similem illis [i.e. Castori Pollucique] formosam
animi simplicis
blandam
cruribus optimis
notam inter duo supercilia habentem
ore pusillo

Polyxenam
candidam
altam
formosam
collo longo
oculis venustis
capillis flavis et longis compositam membris
digitis prolixis
cruribus rectis
pedibus optimis,
quae forma sua omnes superaret, animo simplici
largam
dapsilem.

Briseidam

formosam

non alta statura

candidam

capillo flavo et molli

superciliis iunctis

oculis venustis

corpore aequali

blandam

affabilem

verecundam

animo simplici

piam.

What does Briseis do
in Dares' account?

How did the war start? Whom does Priam blame?

What injustices led to the war?

What had the Greeks done to the poor Trojans?

Is Palamedes the coolest hero ever?

What happens to:

Ajax

Antilochus

Dolon

Idomeneus

Memnon

Palamedes

Patroclus

Why does Achilles leave the fight? What angers him? When does he come back to the fight?

How does Achilles die? Who is responsible?
What role does Polyxena play?

Tunc ardore compulsus odiosam in amore vitam consumit...

What happens to the arms of Achilles?
His command?

What happens to Ajax? Where's his armor?

What's different about the Memnon and Penthesilea stories?

What is the Trojan Horse?

How much does Dares blame Helen?

What about Odysseus? What about Priam?

Are Æneas and Antenor heroes or traitors?

What happens to the Trojan Prisoners?

Andromache

Cassandra

Hecuba

Helen

Helenus

Polyxena

Who ends up ruling Troy? Who has to leave?

English Review

simple sentence
structure

eliminating "to be"

subject, predicate

avoiding contractions

compound predicate

literary present

compound sentence

"however" as
postpositive

active/passive voice